SAY NO!

To Spreadsheets & Bad Expense Management.

EFFICIENCY CALLS.

Running a business is just not easy. Irrespective of the size of your business, the challenges that you face on a daily basis are innumerable. As a business owner, you are always expected to keep the bigger picture in your head and you tend to optimize every bit of your business. Be it controlling operational costs or alleviating the customer experience, you work towards being the master of optimization. Again, it's just not easy. But, do you still use spreadsheets to manage your business expenses? If the answer is yes, let's have a quick look into the big reasons why you need to move on from this conventional but inefficient approach of streamlining your business expenses.

YOUR EMPLOYEES CAN BE MORE PRODUCTIVE WITHOUT SPREADSHEETS.

Employees are a great investment for your organization but also, they also tend to be a major investment. Usually, the amount of time the employees spend in collating their receipts, entering their travel expenses into spreadsheets, verifying the numbers they have entered, printing/scanning and mailing these reports has a negative impact on the time they spend on completing their core business responsibilities.

YOU CAN CONTROL HOW YOUR MONEY IS GETTING SPENT.

While spreadsheets give you great comfort in terms of familiarity of the software, they don't really help much in policy enforcement, dynamic and real-time visibility of your expenses and most importantly management control. Spreadsheets not only tend to make way for a lack of visibility into your expenses, but also limits the importance of accurate budgeting and forecasting.

YOU CAN MAKE WAY FOR BETTER BUSINESS TRAVEL EXPERIENCE.

Business travel is an expensive affair. Using just spreadsheets to capture expense related data from your employees who travel often, is not helpful when you want them to comply to the organizational expense related policies. Also, manual errors and misuse are something that you cannot avoid if you rely on spreadsheets. It's also harsh on the employees when they are forced to manually process their expense reports and submit them in a timely fashion. They are easily distracted when you expect them to remember the company's expense policies by heart while they travel. Why not automate this?

YOU CAN HAVE A BETTER EXPENSE MANAGEMENT PROCESS.

Relying on spreadsheets for expense management not only absorbs a lot of time from your employees, but also absorbs too much time from your Finance team. With no automation in place, there will always be a need for more human resources for reviewing the reports submitted by the employees.
